Eddy Turner Receives Award for Southeastern Hay Contest

The Georgia Association of Conservation Districts (GACD) congratulates

Board Member Eddy Turner on earning first place in the Warm Season Perennial Grass Hay category of the 2026 Southeastern Hay Contest, which celebrates excellence in hay production and forage quality across the Southeast. The award was presented during the Sunbelt Agricultural Exposition, held October 20–22, 2026, in Moultrie, Georgia.

Turner's achievement highlights the dedication, knowledge, and hard work required to produce high-quality forage for livestock. Producing quality hay is an important part of sustainable agriculture, supporting livestock health, efficient farm operations, and responsible management of agricultural resources.

As a member of the GACD Board, Turner contributes to the organization's mission of promoting the conservation and responsible use of Georgia's natural resources. Through the work of Georgia's 40 Soil and Water Conservation Districts, GACD supports farmers, landowners, and communities in protecting soil and water resources while maintaining productive

Sandersville City Council Sets 2027 Millage Rate, Approves Budget

By Bryant Jordan, News Reporter

On Nov. 16, the Sandersville City Council voted to adopt Resolution No. 2026-17, setting the city's ad valorem (property) tax millage rate for the 2027 calendar year at 2.168 mills.

Discussion of this issue began when Mayor Jimmy Andrews called for a motion to enter a public hearing on the proposed 2027 budget. Council Member Ben Salter made the motion, Council Member Deborah Brown seconded it, and the council unanimously approved the motion.

The public hearing followed the council's annual budget retreat, which had been held on Nov. 2. Andrews explained that City Manager Kandice Hartley and Finance Director Leslie Williams had "met with all the department heads and got their budget requests and put it all together for next year, so at this time I'm going to ask Kandice or Leslie to talk about the budget and if anybody has any comment, you are welcome to speak." Referring to the budget, Hartley stated that "we

Washington County Celebrates Kaolin Festival 70th Anniversary

By Bryant Jordan, News Reporter

2026 marks the 70th anniversary of both the Washington County Chamber of Commerce and the Kaolin Festival, which was held this year on Nov. 7 after being postponed from its traditional second-weekend-in-October date because of inclement weather.

Chamber President Katie Moncus noted that there were more than 100 entries in this year's parade, along with 81 vendors, including food, market and nonprofit vendors.

As previously noted in The Georgian, prior to this year's festival the Washington County Historical Society held a program during its quarterly meeting in which Moncus spoke about the history of the festival and the Chamber. Additionally, Marilyn Daniel, now 91, a member of the Sandersville High School Class of 1953 and part of the original committee, shared her memories of the high school homecoming project that would go on to inspire the Kaolin Festival that we know today.

Daniel said, "It is

Retired Educators Celebrate Rrecognition Day

Submitted by President Lillie Spikes

Washington Retired Educators celebrated their recognition day, Sunday, November 1, 2026 at Tennille Grove Baptist Church in Tennille. Ga. Rev. Jerry Walden is the pastor and he had an inspiring message to the retirees and other participants in the audience.

At the conclusion of Rev. Walden's message, the Retirees received a lovely floral bud vase and a group photo was taken. It was a beautiful recognition and ceremony. Thanks to all who made this program a success.

BOE Extends Contract with May

By Bryant Jordan, News Reporter

The Washington County Board of Education voted on Nov. 5 to approve an extension of Superintendent Timothy May's contract.

Following an executive session, Vice Chair Dr. Al Gray called for a motion to extend the superintendent's contract for three years beginning Jan. 1, 2027. The motion was made by board member Leigh Jordan and seconded by Board Chair Robbie telephone.

Gray then explained that the vote would be taken by roll call. Jordan voted in favor of the extension, while board member Rita Hunt, who also attended via telephone, voted against it, citing "contractual terms." Board member Rodney Walker also voted no.

Walker explained his vote, saying, "I think Tim has done a fine job. Mr. May is doing an excellent job, but due to the last board's same thing with Dr. Edmond, I mean it should be left to the new board to extend his contract, OK, so that way we won't have to go over the same old thing we did with Dr. Edmond, and that is the only reason why."

Blocker and Gray both voted in favor of the extension.

"That is 3 to 2 votes, three yes and two no, so the extension of the superintendent contract will go ahead, effective Jan. 1," Gray said.

Sick Days: Confessions of a Recovering Germaphobe

By KYLE DOMINY

Howard Hughes was an eccentric man to say the least.

One of the most famous wealthy figures in American history, Hughes was just as known for his odd behavior as he was his business dealings. He made movies and was a savvy investor on top of building and flying airplanes. Accidents and near death experiences while testing some of his flying machines are credited with worsening his obsessive compulsive behavior. Trauma does have a way of bringing out the worst in people.

But even before his life took its bizarre, tragic turn, Hughes was widely known as a germaphobe. He went through great lengths to avoid getting sick, going as far as burning his suits if he suspected he had encountered some sort of contaminate or, shudder at the thought, an ill person.

That proves the old adage, you can't hide money. With most suits being dry clean only, you can count on most people wearing dirty suits. I did, however, keep a suit tucked away in the corner of my closet for about a decade after a funeral turned into an illness spreading event. It was a miserable ride home from the cemetery, but I'll spare you the gross details.

I finally tossed the garment away with the trash recently. It's a shame, it was a nice suit. A black three piece with a faint blue pinstripe. Fit like a glove too.

But I digress.

As Hughes' mental state deteriorated over the years, so did his mysophobia. He became more and more irrational. He isolated himself for weeks on end, allegedly wearing tissue boxes on his feet to avoid contact with any surface. His hair and fingernails grew long. He avoided bathing and performing basic hygiene tasks. - a counterintuitive measure that somehow played into his delusion.

When he died he was a mere shell of the former dapper business tycoon. His body was so unrecognizable that the FBI had to be called in to analyze his finger prints.

It is a good thing that he didn't have kids.

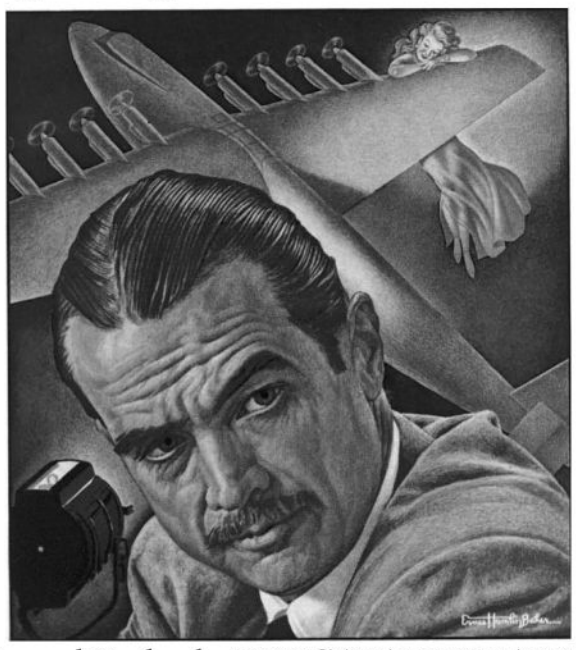

This is being written on a sick day, pulling double duty as many parents must during cold and flu season, squeezing in a little work as a sick child rests in the other room. This is after spending the morning in the urgent care waiting room with other people exhibiting symptoms that make you want to burn your clothes. I was recently in an elementary school, visiting to read a story to a class of second graders and the halls echoed with a seemingly non-stop chorus of coughs and sniffles.

My grandmother always said that you can't run from being sick. You don't catch it as much as it catches you.

Admittedly, I'm a recovering germaphobe. There was a time in my life when I would have avoided crowds during flu season. A time when my hands couldn't possibly be cleaner but I'd wash them again.

Having children changed that. Kids are natural dirty bombs, innocently spreading whatever contaminates picked up throughout the day. Besides, getting a little sick every now and then is good for you. It helps the immune system fight off worse conditions.

But if you see me wearing Kleenex boxes on my feet, just know I need a little help.

my pleasure to be able to come and share my memories of the Sandersville High School homecoming project of 1952. But first, let me make sure that you understand this: Our little high school project had nothing to do with the kaolin industry. Absolutely nothing."

Daniel said, "I was a senior at Sandersville High School, a member of Mrs. Hazel Metts' English class and a member of her journalism club." According to Daniel, Metts chose the members who would serve on the board.

Noting that her father was in the Navy, Daniel said that she traveled frequently while growing up.

"We would come back to Davisboro. I might go to school here for two or three months before we would be off to another state somewhere because Daddy was in the Navy, and we traveled a lot. I never went to the same school for a whole year until I got into high school and started here at Sandersville High School. But she was Miss Metts when I knew her. We were in the eighth grade, and I was at that school about three months or so before the school year was over. I don't remember when she became Miss Bedgood, I'll be honest with you, but by the time we got to Sandersville High School, she was Miss Bedgood."

"She gave us a challenge to create an activity that would involve parental and community interest," Daniel said.

She added that she did not remember how they decided what they were going to do for the project but explained, "I just imagine that she [Bedgood] already knew in her mind what she wanted us to do."

Daniel said that the project had to involve students, faculty, staff, parents and the community.

"It wasn't just going to be a journalism thing."

Daniel said the project "ended up being an afternoon of four activities. One, we had a parade. Oh, I was so excited about that one because I was a cheerleader, and I was going to sit on that parade float and ride down the street and wave with everybody. But we had problems. We didn't have any trailers, so what came up were the farmers. The farmers had wagons. The wagons had removable sides."

With the help of these local farmers, the committee was able to have four floats in the parade.

"We started with four floats. The principal, staff and faculty were on one float. The football coach and players were on another float."

Daniel said the cheerleaders had their own trailer. She noted that students from various clubs rode on another float. Daniel also believed that members of the homecoming court were on a float.

Daniel noted that the second activity was a barbecue prepared by the lunchroom staff and local farmers.

"We had farmers, men in the community. They might have had children in high school, maybe not, I don't know, but anyway, they barbecued the pigs, sold the plates, made the school some money, and that made the principal happy."

Marilyn Daniel, c. 1952/1953

The third event was a football game.

"We played Dublin, and, oh, we were the Devils that night. We beat them good."

Daniel said the last event was the dance.

"We had a band that came who agreed to play for nothing. Parents and students were all welcome to come into the new gym that we had, the old wooden one they tore down. I was there when it was brand new."

Daniel noted that there was a donation box at the dance, and donations were given to the band.

The sparks of which Daniel spoke continue to burn, and 70 years later, the tradition that began as a high school project continues to bring new generations together each year.

Moncus told The Georgian that "the Kaolin Festival committee was pleased with the day. It was beautiful weather, great crowds and a perfect day to enjoy downtown Sandersville and celebrate Kaolin!"

Sandersville City Council Sets 2027 Millage Rate,Approves Budget

don't have any changes unless anybody has got any questions."

Mayor Pro Tem Jeffrey Smith said that he wanted to acknowledge that the proposed millage rate for 2027 would be 2.168 mills.

"It was three mills for a long time before it started climbing. We even reached seven mills at one time, so as a starting point, this is a historically low rate for us."

Smith noted that it "really takes about 11 mills to operate the city's general fund if you funded it all through there, so I just think it is great value for our public to be able to pay this millage rate and get the benefit of the 11 mills."

He also noted that the City of Sandersville is currently "the lowest energy provider in the state."

According to the Georgia Public Service Commission's residential rate survey, Sandersville's residential electricity charge is listed at $53.50, or 10.70 cents per kilowatt-hour, the lowest rate on the survey. Dalton Utilities was listed as the second lowest rate at $55.60.

"If you are paying a utility bill, a power bill, or if you are paying your property taxes, you get a lot of advantages," Smith said.

Andrews stated that the first time he served on the City Council, in 1980, the millage rate was 7.5 mills. In 1981, the council reduced the rate to three mills.

"So, you are right, this is historical. This is lower than the taxes were in 1981, so thank you, everybody, for working as a team."

Council Member Danny Brown added that "with the cost of energy, we being the lowest in the state and Dalton being second, and our millage rate, [Sandersville is a] great place to live."

Hartley said the city had "definitely accomplished a lot." She emphasized that, with the tax rollback and the electric rate, an increase had not been passed on to customers since 2015.

"That is unheard of, so you as a council should be very proud of that," Hartley said.

She also noted that the city had been "hit by a 5% increase with Ryland, and we are not passing that on to the customer this year as well."

"There is a lot that we are not passing. I feel like sometimes the citizens may not see, but we are not passing a lot of our increases, and we are absorbing them on their behalf," said Hartley.

She continued, saying, "We hope that 2027 will be a good year. I think we have got a good budget, and I am glad that we can give some relief to our citizens."

There being no further questions or comments, Andrews announced that the council would return to regular session. He then called for "a motion to adopt Resolution No. 2026-17, a resolution setting the millage rate for ad valorem (property) taxes for the 2027 calendar year for the City of Sandersville, Georgia, with that rate being 2.168 mills."

The motion was made by Council Member Deborah Brown, seconded by Council Member Danny Brown and unanimously adopted. Council Member Mayme Dennis attended the meeting via telephone and was not able to vote.
